

SENIOR LECTURER/LECTURER IN NEW TESTAMENT (2016)— EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST

Trinity Theological College, Perth an affiliated college of the Australian College of Theology, invites expressions of interest and nominations for the position of full-time Senior Lecturer/Lecturer in New Testament (to begin July 2016; earlier start date is possible).

The successful candidate will demonstrate: a lively personal Christian faith and exemplary character, wholehearted adherence to evangelical doctrine, unreserved willingness to support the mission and ethos of Trinity Theological College (see www.ttc.wa.edu.au), excellent teaching and learning practice, academic and church/mission leadership experience, and strong preaching and pastoral gifts. Teaching qualifications for this position will include an MDiv (or equivalent) from an accredited institution, a PhD with relevant specialization, and recent peer-reviewed publications. Competence to teach in an additional area will be an advantage. Candidates with less experience or a nearly completed PhD are also encouraged to apply. This position reports to the Principal.

Duties include: teaching and supervision in New Testament to research degree level; pastoral oversight of students; relevant ongoing research and publications; serving on faculty and College committees; advising students and graduates; and participation in the College community and its development, including the College's extension program (Trinity @ Night). Potential applicants should submit a letter of interest demonstrating suitability, together with curriculum vitae and the names of four relevant referees via email to principalpa@ttc.wa.edu.au marked "Senior Lecturer/Lecturer New Testament 2016". Applications/nominations will be reviewed from 19 October 2015.

The College reserves the right not to make an appointment.
